(Cont'd)

c. The US is receiving "damned if you do, damned if you don't" treatment. The government newspaper intones against a "handful of short-witted foreign officials who attempt mechanically to apply...dogmas of democracy to Korea." Simultaneously, both military and civilian leaders almost desperately seek US advice on how to end the impasse.

7. Guatemala

a. The alarm being raised over allegations of a mounting threat from Castro-Communist forces may be contrived as an excuse for declaration of a state of siege.

b. Armed with this weapon, military and rightist elements would have the means either to block ex-President Arevalo's return home or to place strict curbs on him once back. Arevalo has said that he will return on 31 March.

c. Whether the maneuver is being carried out with Ydigoras' blessing or in spite of him we cannot yet say.
